Young Mrs. Williams Tells of Husband Murdering Aged Employer.

(Special to The Evening World.)
TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 29.—The police are still searching for Franklin Williams, who, his young bride says, murdered aged John Krause, a paralytic cigar-maker, of Lincoln avenue, and then forced her to assist him in disposing of the body to temporarily hide his crime.

That Mrs. Williams herself assisted her husband in attempting to hide the body is positive, for the condition in which the body of the victim was found shows that Williams himself could not have tied it up without assistance.

Last night, shortly before 6 o'clock, a man about 5 feet 6 inches high, stocky built, with long black hair and wearing a long dark blue overcoat, accompanied by a girl-looking woman, walked hastily down East Front street and stopped in front of Furman's livery stable.

"Oh, Save Me! Save Me!"
The young woman crossed the street and, while the man stood waiting, she walked up and down in front of the stable, and then, as if in great distress, she turned to the man and said:

"Harry Keugler, of Engine No. 2, passed her, and as he did so was surprised to hear her say:
"Mr. Policeman, save me. Oh, save me!"

"What's the matter," asked Keugler. "Oh, my husband has killed a man and I'm afraid he will kill me!"
Here the woman broke down completely and Keugler hurriedly carried her into Jager's saloon where she again repeated her words to Mr. Jager and his bartender.

The condition of the woman, who was on the verge of collapse, led the onlookers to believe that she was insane, and little credence was given to her story. While this was endeavoring to quiet her the man entered, having discovered his wife's absence, and in a determined but quiet manner asked her to go with him. She refused and he left.

A few minutes later he came back again and again pleaded with her to go with him. Again she refused, and at last realizing that he could not wait longer, the man kissed her good-by and left the place, saying:
"Then I'll go alone."

Then the spectators realized that there was evidently something in the woman's story, and the bartender was despatched for the police.

Williams escaped, and no trace of him can be found. Mrs. Williams was taken to the Central Police Station, but her condition was such that further than to give a description of her husband and answering the usual questions concerning herself she could tell nothing and she was placed in a cell and the police surgeon sent for.

This morning her condition was but little improved, and the police have decided to wait until she has recovered before allowing her to be questioned.

Mrs. Williams's Story.
To Mr. and Mrs. Jager, however, Mrs. Williams told the story of the murder, declaring positively that she had nothing whatever to do with it.

According to Mrs. Williams her husband and Frank Krause, who employed him, began quarreling about money matters shortly after dinner. They were in the workshop, and she was in the kitchen.

She heard loud words, and rushing into the shop begged her husband not to strike Krause. She then left the room but a few moments later heard blows striking and she rushed back.

She returned to the workshop, where she saw the body of Krause and a heavy piece of box wood, used to press cigars into shape, lying on the floor, covered with blood.

Without asking her husband anything further, she ran to the door and tried to escape in conjunction with him, when occupied their attention until about 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when they left the house for Furman's livery stable to get a rig.

Mrs. Williams gave no details of what she saw and heard, and was doing from the time the old man was killed until they left the house, but declared that she had nothing to do with the disposing of the body.

Williams must, however, have had assistance, for the body was found secured in a rubber blanket and heavy paper tins, and with heavy twine and every attempt made to clear away signs of murder.

Son of Wealthy Father.
Descriptions of Williams have been sent broadcast and it is thought he will soon be caught.

Williams is well educated and comes from Buffalo, where his father is president of an asphalt company. He is about twenty-five years of age and was married to his wife about one year ago. She formerly lived in Wilmington.

John Krause, the murdered man, was a character about this city. Some years ago he was considered in connection with the wiles of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries or whether the wiles themselves were resorted to as a means of disposing the less fortunate. It would be difficult to determine satisfactorily. One facial tendency, which has been remarked by Prof. Montaguza as characteristic of the English of both sexes during the past century, is the tendency to a more straight nose. Aquiline noses, which were exceedingly common in the eighteenth century, are becoming rarer in Great Britain.

10.30 LIMIT FOR BROOKLYN CALLS.

VIOLATION OF RULE MAY RESULT IN NIGHT IN A CELL.

Maid Mistook Two Men Who Appeared After Prohibited Hour for Burglars.

No gentleman should ever call on a young woman so late as 10:30 o'clock at night—especially if the young lady chances to live in Brooklyn. Mr. Arthur T. Hollingsworth, formerly of England, but now of No. 21 West Twenty-fourth street, Manhattan, violated this rule last night, and in consequence he spent several hours in a cell and had to go to police court this morning.

It appears from the evidence of disinterested witnesses, including that of Alderman Wentz, of Brooklyn, who by the way is a substantial person and the father of nineteen children, that Mr. Hollingsworth and a friend rang the doorbell at No. 17 Bainbridge street at 10:30 o'clock last night and inquired for Miss Wilcox.

The maid informed them that Miss Wilcox was not at home. The callers left and repaired to a neighboring saloon. The maid, who imagined that they had been trying to get into the house for burglarious purposes just when she happened in the hall, and that for this reason only they rang the bell, rushed below and told her young man, who had called early enough to be admitted, that burglars were trying to get in the house.

CLOTHES LINED WITH SUMATRA.

SO SAY MEN WHO ARRESTED FIVE SUSPECTS.

Later, Who Were Stewards on the Bremen, Are Held on Smuggling Charge.

The five stewards of the North German Lloyd steamship Bremen who were arrested last night on a charge of attempted smuggling were arraigned before United States Commissioner Russ in Newark today and held for a further hearing on Monday.

The prisoners are L. Asling, twenty-five years old; C. Laurin, thirty-one; A. Schmidt, forty-one; John Sebold, thirty-six; and T. Saumman, twenty-two. It is alleged that when they were arrested their clothing was found to be lined with Sumatra tobacco leaf, worth $1 a pound.

Customs inspectors O'Hare and Angel, who made the arrest, say that the prisoners were agents in a systematic smuggling scheme, and that a dealer in this city has been receiving the tobacco.

(From Lady Anne Barnard's Letters.)
I must tell you of the reply of a young woman who was taken at the same time (as Emmet), and who wore green ribbons in her hat, the rebel color. "Why," said the officer, "is it that so pretty a young woman as you wear this object of sorrow?" She only answered, "You can't help the color, do what you will, it grows every day."

It really seems, judging by the past few weeks' enormous business, that ours is the only store that has the right sort of clothing at popular prices—of course we have been making men's clothing "made as they should be" for a great many years, and it is doubly gratifying to see so many men have come to appreciate the great difference between our clothing and the ordinary ready-made kind.

Special Sale of Men's $22 Long, Loose OVERCOATS, 50 Inches Long, at $15.

The most popular garment ever made by us is our Great Coat—it's the garment of the season—very broad shoulders, long and loose, slash pockets, turn-up cuffs; made of a heavy gray Oxford and Cambridge frieze. We had the foresight to prepare large quantities, and in face of the scarcity of the long overcoat we could charge $22 for them, and they're well worth that—but we give you the benefit of our foresight and place them on special sale at..... 15.00

Men's $15 Overcoats, $12. Made of Cambridge, black and Oxford frieze, blue and black Kersey, in the new loose, broad-shouldered style, also the medium-length, closer fitting Overcoat with regular pockets; instead of $15, 12	Men's $15 Suits at $12. Made of black Thibets and worsted Cheviots, in the broad-shouldered, military and regulation sack style, smartly cut, with long narrow, snug-fitting collars; equal and in many ways superior to the ordinary ready-made $15 suit; our price..... 12
Men's $25 Great Coats at $20. You have the knowledge of being well dressed in one of these overcoats—they're made of rich, soft-fleeing moulins in dark Oxford and Cambridge, gray, very wide shoulders, cut big and loose all around, slash pockets, cuffs on sleeves. Extraordinary value at $25; our price..... 20	Men's $20 Suits at $15. Every fabric that's new and considered good style is represented in this line—the new greens and browns, faintly overplaid effects, Oxford mixtures, cut in smart, stylish sack suits; your $25 expectations are easily realized in these suits at..... 15
Men's Overcoats at $22 & $25. Either in the long loose single or double breasted style or the smart suitcut, both are illustrated from the garments in the above cut—the fabrics consist of large overblends, green, brown and Oxford mixtures—garments that would cost you $25.00 or $30.00 at a good custom tailor's; our special price..... 22 & 25	Men's $25 Prince Albert $18. Made as they should be—cut on the same patterns as our $32 coats and vests, broad-shouldered, gracefully shaped collars and lapels, silk faced to the buttonholes, lined with pure moulain serge; nothing less than a $25 coat and vest can equal them in value or style; they are unmatched at..... 18
